FGCU Florida Institute of Government Presents "Leadership Mastery... for Peak Performance" Workshop

January 30, 2006

WHO: FGCU Florida Institute of Government, for managers and employees from both the private and public sectors

WHAT: "Leadership Mastery... for Peak Performance" full-day workshop from the Florida Institute of Government's Leadership and Management Skills Series. The course teaches participants that preparation is the key to leadership including having the skills necessary to be a successful leader, knowing what you are expected to do, knowing the people you are supposed to lead and what they want, and knowing if their mission is different from the people who put you in charge. Participants learn the steps of preparation that set them apart from the average leader. Ava Fluty is instructor.

WHEN: 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., Friday, Feb. 10

WHERE: Student Union 213

WHY: To learn how to:

- Understand the roles of today's leaders
- Assess your leadership image and size up strengths and weaknesses
- Network effectively at work and in the community
- Work your career plan
- Develop mentor/protégé relationships
- Sharpen creative problem solving skills

COST: $89
